Subject: Bachman Update

Jhana,

Hope you had a wonderful weekend.

So far there are no soil results yet, hopefully those will be delivered today and they can decide how to remediate the creek.

This weekend they setup a filtering process to see if they could meet our Utilities standards to discharge the water into the Sanitary Sewer System. Their efforts were not very successful. I am not sure if they are going to continue that direction.

I did check with the Indian Cultural Center and confirmed that they are not a Indian Territory, it is privately owned.

Tammy Bachman has ask me to go with her today and meet with the Indian Cultural Center to give them and update. I am sure they are curious how long they will be using their property and how they will stabilize the property on their way out.

Still very hot here!

I will give you another update as I get information,
